STEEPLE IS NOT POPULAR

In Present Day Church Architecture.

IMMENSE DOMES USED

Instead of the Old Fashioned Steeple.

Some of the New York Structures
Recently Built Cost One Million Dollars.

Some of the church structures recently built in New York City indicate that the old-fashioned steeple is not popular with modern architects. The Madison Square Presbyterian church, the pastor of which is the Reverend Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst, which has an immense dome, is an example of the new style of ecclesiastical architecture. Situated at the corner of Madison Avenue and Twenty-fourth Street, it is one of a group of the most striking buildings in New York. To the southwest, little more than a hundred yards away, is the tall Flatiron; across Twenty-fourth Street is the Metropolitan Life, one of the largest office buildings in the world; two blocks to the north is the Madison Square Garden; and across the square is the Fifth Avenue Hotel, the old-time rendezvous of National politicians.

The church proper and the parish house are joined so as to form one structure. The exterior is of brick upon a marble base. The floors and dome throughout, and the partitions in the parish house are made of terra cotta tile blocks, so that absolute safety from fire is assured. The cost of the church and parish house was $25,000.

Another house of worship even stranger than Dr. Parkhurst's is the Broadway Tabernacle (Congregational), at Broadway and Fifty-sixth Street. It has the appearance of a combination church and office building. It is also of the most modern fireproof construction, being built of steel protected by hollow terra cotta blocks. It cost $350,000.

The Tabernacle has a tower, but not the sort commonly associated with churches. All of it is put to use. On its first floor are the Sunday school rooms. Between them and the belfry there is room for all the activities of the church organization. Mission rooms and a ladies' parlor are on the third floor, the Young Men's library on the fourth, the pastor's study, reception room and church library on the fifth, the sexton's living quarters on the sixth and a museum on the seventh. Above that is the belfry. In the basement are two spacious halls for all sorts of gatherings.

Far outstripping either of these in cost is the First Church of Christ Scientist better known as the Christian Science Church, at Central Park West and Ninety-sixth Street. One million, three hundred thousand dollars was spent on this building, exclusive of the cost of the land. It is not accurate to describe it definitely as a church, because it has an organization that treats the sick, keeping open seven days in the week. It is said that 5,000 persons come there for treatment from the Christian Science practitioners every year.

Marbles were brought from every corner of the globe to line the walls of this edifice. Huge steel girders support the dome and the galleries. Terra cotta tile of the finest variety makes floors and walls irresistible to fire. There are about forty rooms, besides the auditorium, in the building. There is no branch of Christian Science activity which is not represented there.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

RAISING BABIES BY CHART.

An Addition to the Schedule for Which the Nurse Wasn't Even Grateful. We let machines, in the form of dummies under printed directions, tacked upon the walls. And some mothers are proud of the completeness of their thralldom to these charts—actually proud because their babies are "scheduled" youngsters.

The other day I was shown a chart—a business-like, austere product of some pseudo-scientist's brain and printer's ink.

"Isn't it complete?" said the near-mother. "Read it."

I read: "Aerated milk, nine a. m. Scraped one-fourth orange, 9:30 a. m. Pasteurized milk, ten a. m. Slice of health toast, one-sixteenth ounce, 10:15 a. m. Modified milk, three ounces, 10:45 a. m. Walk 18 steps, 11 a. m. Two teaspoons distilled water, 11:15 a. m."

The rest of the chart was similar to this.

"It is complete," said I, "but I should like to edit the next one they get out." She opened her eyes and raised her brows. (You know the way superior people, especially the recently-superior kind, do it—so's you get a taste in your mouth right away as if she had handed you a grape-fruit to eat, without sugar.)

"By putting in a line right here," I said, refusing to be frozen by her manner, "12:30 to one o'clock. Love baby a little."

She didn't even thank me for the suggestion—actually, she didn't. Women are peculiar propositions—What?—May Bohemian.

POLICE DOGS OF VIENNA.

Experiments So Far Have Only Proved Qualified Success.

Some interesting experiments were made recently with police dogs in the Schwarzenberg park, says a Vienna report. The animals used were German shepherds, greatly resembling wolves. The dogs proved successful in carrying messages. They covered over half a mile in three minutes, bringing a message from an outpost, taking back an answer, and then returning to "headquarters."

A trial to illustrate the use of the animals in saving drowning persons nearly had a fatal ending. The victim was dragged by a dog across the pond in which the experiment was made, but as the animal kept his head under the water the subject of the test was half drowned when he reached the bank.

In another case a supposed burglar, who was pursued by one of the dogs, was so ferociously attacked by the animal that he had to be rescued from his captor. Archduchess Isabella after the trial ordered a number of trained police dogs for the protection of her family when living in the country.

Too Much Coffee.

A Cincinnati doctor who thinks that all the ills of the human race can be traced to the drinking of coffee and tea entered a restaurant recently and seated himself opposite an Irishman who was busying himself trying to dispose of a steaming cup of coffee.

"How often do you use coffee?" queried the doctor.

"I drink it morning, noon and night, sir."

"Don't you experience a slight dizziness of the brain on retiring at night?"

"Indeed I do, sir, very frequently."

"You have a sharp pain through the temples and in and around the eyes?"

"Right you are," replied the Irishman.

"You are possessed with a drowsiness when you awake in the morning, and your head often aches and feels very heavy?"

"Right again," answered the Irishman, still sipping his coffee.

"Well, then," exclaimed the doctor, sitting erect in his chair, "are you now convinced that the coffee is the cause?"

"Is that so?" said the Irishman, in astonishment. "Faith I always thought it was the whisky."—What to Eat.

Public Spiritless Thugs.

A man was coming up from Chunchen province with a sum of money which had been subscribed for the payment of the public debt. He was met by robbers, who took the money and started away. He called after them that the money was a subscription to the fund for the raising of the debt, whereupon they came back and handed him the money and begged his pardon for their mistake, and then gave him ten yen extra as a contribution on their own part. He asked their names to publish in the papers, but they said they did not want to obtain notoriety in that way, and declined, but said they were glad to pay something toward helping the country.—Korean News.

A Place for Business.

Pat, a miner, after struggling for years in a far off western mining district, finally giving up in despair, was about to turn his face eastward, when suddenly he struck it rich. Soon afterward he was seen strutting along, dressed in the clothes.

One day an old friend stopped him, saying, "And how are you, Pat? I'd like to talk to you."

Pat stretched himself proudly. "If you want to talk to me I'll see you at my office. I have an office now, and me hours is from a. m. in the morning to p. m. in the afternoon."

The phenomenal cures accomplished by the Boy Phenomenon, who has an over-abundance of the vital element, continue to attract crowds of our best citizens to his office at the Majestic hotel, and to excite the greatest interest all over the city and county. While some of the cures performed upon the public stage seem to wonderful to believe, the most conservative versions adopt very little short of miraculous.

What lends an air of truthfulness to the report of these cures and which makes them facts which can not be denied is the fact that those who have been cured are among the oldest and best known citizens of Marion, whose veracity could not be doubted.

Another transformation from being so deaf that people had to shout in his ears to make him hear and now being able to hear an ordinary conversation is that of R. E. Blakney, an old resident of this county who, as every one knew, has been deaf fourteen years, and had those annoying roaring buzzing noises in the head.

He received his first treatment two weeks ago and because he did not regain his hearing immediately, like others had, he became discouraged, and was going to quit, after his third treatment but was finally prevailed upon to continue and in an interview Saturday he said:

"There is so much suffering in this world and so many deaf people who have been imposed upon that I believe that when a method is found that will alleviate such conditions it should be made widely known.

Therefore, when I took treatment I made up my mind if I was not cured to let the public know it. Therefore, it is with a feeling of surprised gratitude and a desire to let others know the true facts, that I make a public statement.

"I was one of many skeptics who went to the Opera House weeks ago to see the Boy Phenomenon treat the afflicted. I had been deaf over fourteen years, and tried all kinds of treatment that I ever heard of but never got the least benefit. I was not only discouraged, but disgusted in trying to get well, and had made up my mind I would never try again as I had been imposed upon and deceived so many times that I lost faith in every body who said they could cure me. But when I saw two prominent citizens go upon the stage and after treatment tell me they were cured, I was a little more interested so a few days after I drove to the homes of nine persons who had been treated for various chronic diseases, to learn if their cures were permanent, and every one of them told me they were getting better every day. They convinced me there must be something in vital magnetism as I did not think so many prominent people could be fooled, and although my doctor and friends made fun of me and tried to persuade me not to waste my money, I began the treatment and now I can hear as well as I ever did. After the third treatment I admit I was discouraged, as I ex-
